

Big Al, Your Friend and Mine

This book offers parents and teachers help in teaching character education and language skills. Big Al represents the wise adult who listens to the problems of others and advises how to handle or solve them. Three stories discuss loss, friendship, bullying, cooperative effort and leadership. Exercises following each story practice number and language skills. The first story shows that grief from a loss is normal and sharing with a friend offers relief. Exercises include recognition and writing of numbers one to ten and rhyming words. Bullies, their actions and results, proper social behavior and ones reaction to a bully are discussed in Big Al Helps Lion. The child practices word opposites and paragraph composition. In the third story, the child is encouraged to listen to the ideas of others, make concessions and cooperate in group work. The child learns about leadership, seasons, word families and opposites.
